"SALUTATIONS TO THE DIVINE FAMILY"

My dear brother,

I thank you very much for your kind letter of 17th. I have read the contents many times and the more I read more light they throw on the path of my understanding.

It seems to me we have been using English very loosely and in our improper use of words we have given them meanings which they do not intend to intimate and which naturally sounds strange in the ears of one who knows English correctly. I wish I have a correct understanding of this language.

It is my belief that much of the printed messages etc. need re-editing. They need to be presented in a simpler language too. Lengthy discourses with high sounding words do not help any. Hence we approach M'zad for help. But now I understand your position too. It was really a shock to me to receive the matter back unedited. I am glad to note you are taking up the work of editing the lot we sent to you. You may take your own time as I am not keen to get the same printed for the birthday.

Although it was and it is my wish not to print anything unedited, yet due to lack of time and as the Nagpur Centre wanted to associate with us in printing and publication work, I have taken out some small messages from 'Life At Its Best' for the birthday occasion. Even that I am not sure of getting ready for the time, as I was told all the prints of Kesari are used up for your new book and the printing is held up for want of paper which is not delivered yet.

I am really thrilled by your appreciation of my articles and I am sure if you help me (as you promise you will do when you come to Poona) I will be able to express thoughts much better.

I am trying my best <sup>to</sup> reduce my moving around activities in order I may get time to concentrate on study, by which I will be able to work better.

I am sending an ash tray and a paper weight both made out of coconut tree from Kerala.

With love,

K. K. Ramakrishnan
